

Dr. Chantal Brazeau has been a faculty member at Rutgers New Jersey Medical School since 1995 where she is Professor of Family Medicine and Psychiatry. She has been Director of Medical Student Education and Interim Chair of the Department of Family Medicine.

Throughout her academic career, she has taught about professional well-being and has conducted local and national survey-based studies on medical student, faculty and physician well-being. She has presented at national and international venues on this topic.

She has served as Assistant Dean for Faculty Vitality at New Jersey Medical School since 2016 and assumed that role at Robert Wood Johnson Medical School in January 2020. She was announced as the inaugural Chief Wellness Officer at Rutgers Biomedical and Health Sciences in December 2019. She works closely with school, university and hospital leadership teams to explore and lead the development and implementation of wellness initiatives for faculty and health care providers.